Because of letter bombs being addressed to [] and [] in New York in recent days, the Postal Service subjects all mail addressed to these organizations to X-ray analysis before passing them along for delivery. The attached letter to the DCI has been checked and found to be harmless; however, Postal Inspectors fear that it would be returned to them over and over again and it would not be delivered without considerable delay. For this reason, they have turned the letter over to us for forwarding. They request that the envelope be returned to them in connection with their on-going investigation.
